

Mike Kahoe Yet Wise Guy---Shrine Faces Grotto---Rice Boxes Sweeney

LOOKING 'EM OVER

BY
LOUIS A. DOUGHER

Kahoe Still Wise Old Owl

Mike Kahoe is still a wise old owl. The case of Bill Snyder tends to prove it, for it was Mike Kahoe who tipped off Clark Griffith to the possibilities of this sturdy lad from Akron. Mike must chuckle every time he picks up a paper and sees something boosting his protegee, for that's what Bill Snyder was when he toiled for a rubber factory team up in Akron, Ohio, where Mike's physical director and general factotum of health and recreation.

One day last summer Mike found that the Griffs had two off days. He suggested that the Old Fox book his team for two exhibition games with shop teams in the Rubber City. "I've got a couple of players I'd like you to see," wrote Mike to Griff. The deed was done. On their way West the Griffs stopped off at Akron and played the two games. It was then that Griff saw Bill Snyder for the first time. Oh yes, he saw two or three more players, bringing them all down to Washington for observation. Snyder is still here. Furthermore, Snyder looks good enough to stick around for some days.

Until Bill Snyder signed with the Washington ball club, he had never played professional ball. He was just a big fellow with plenty of speed, a fair curve ball and a desire for outdoor life, as represented by baseball. He was getting by all right, working for the Detroit Tigers in the ninth inning. The Tigers were winning, 9 to 4, but that didn't stop Snyder from forcing Al Smith and Elmhurst to roll to short and Donnie Bush to fan the breeze in the thirder. That was Snyder's big league debut.

Gets His First Start.
A week later, against the Cleveland Indians, Snyder made his first start in fast company. He lasted seven innings and gave Speaker's bunch four runs. It was seen that while awkward and green, the rookie had a world of promise and Clark Griffith decided to develop him.

This spring Snyder reported in good condition and immediately set out to learn all he could about the fine art of flinging. He didn't think he knew it all, was ever ready to receive advice and gradually rounded to.

When Courtney was shelved from the bench by the Mackmen on May 3, Bill Snyder climbed the hill and held the enemy to one run in seven and one-third innings. Four days later he started against the New York gang of sluggers and lasted six innings, at that time the youngster allowed four runs, succumbing to an earthquake in the seventh. Even then, had he been more experienced, he would have been permitted to remain. Griffith did not want to risk losing the game through this greenness, and so sent in Erickson, who held the Yanks safely in check.

POSTPONE PIN TOURNEY WEEK TO SUIT BOWLERS

Recreation Duckpin Leaders Look for Wonderful Meeting of City's Best.
The second annual intercity tournament, to be held at the Recreation, has been held over for another week at the request of many of Washington's leading bowlers. Instead of beginning tomorrow night, it will get under way on June 14. Delaying the start means that there will be more entries from out-of-town teams.

George L. Isemann, for years a prominent figure in Washington bowling circles, will compete in the 1920 tournament and will also assist John L. Vaeth in handling the various events. The committee in charge of the tournament is composed of George C. Cox, Norman Ross, Moe Goldberg, Sam Gheen, Jack Williams, Thomas George, Arthur Urban, Pop Pesagnone, Harry Butner, John Welsh, John L. Vaeth, Joseph Holleran, Lon Kraus, and Emory Elliott.

Mike Kahoe Will Chuckle.
And if tomorrow morning Mike Kahoe picks up his newspaper and sees in the box score of the Red Sox-Washington game that line "Snyder is on the winning side, he will chuckle, for it will be proof to him that he has found another capable young man to bring out in fast company. Mike has found many others, too. Bill Snyder's just one of them.

Following today's contest at Georgia avenue, both the Griffs and Red Sox will depart with great suddenness. The Griffs will be on their way to St. Louis, the Red Sox off for Chicago, the convention city, for the first invasion of the West in the next.

BABE RUTH ILLUSTRATING HIS "FOLLOW THROUGH" SWING

Babe Ruth, the "Mighty Slugger," who has set the baseball world agog with batting feats never before accomplished, shows here the "follow through" in his swing with which he makes home-run drives on low balls on the inside, a delivery which Bambino, in the vernacular of the game, usually "murders." Not that Ruth can't connect with other deliveries. Far from it. Pitchers have long sought to find out his weakness at bat, and the majority have given it up. He has fooled the best of them. Next to baseball, Ruth likes to play golf best, and it is this sport that helped to teach the big slugger the value of the "follow through." Babe gets wonderful distance to his drives on the links as well as on the ball field.

NAMES CLARENCE MILES AS GRADUATE MANAGER

Will Have Charge of All Business Arrangements at Virginia Tech.

BLACKSBURG, June 6.—At a meeting of the athletic council of the Virginia Tech athletic association Clarence P. Miles of the class of 1901 was unanimously elected graduate manager for the coming year. Mr. Miles announced today that he had accepted the position offered him and that in the future he would devote his entire time to the management and development of athletics at this institution.

Miles has for years been the moving spirit in the development of athletics here and his many friends and admirers will be delighted to hear that he is to be directing head of sports at Virginia Tech.

SPORTS CUT SHORT.

Illinois captured the conference meet with forty points. Michigan was second a point behind. The javelin throw record was broken. Washington's crack racqueters and Baltimore representatives are arranging an intercity tennis match. Princeton University athletes will run in a dual meet with the Oxford-Cambridge men in England on July 10.

The intercity bowling tournament scheduled for the Recreation alleys will be held June 14, the date being postponed a week.
Business and Central hook up in the first game of the play-off championship series on June 15.
A swimming meet for high school girls may be run off Saturday at the Tidal Basin bathing beach.
Maryland Country Club will stage a tennis tournament starting the middle of the month.

Hree It Is

Thinking about how hard a task is going to be is often more wearing than the doing of it.

FINKENSTAEDT BLOWS UP ON PUTTING IN FINAL

RICHMOND, Va., June 6.—Robert L. Finkenzaedt, of Columbia Country Club, missed a three-foot putt on the eighteenth green in the Middle Atlantic title tournament here with the championship in his grasp. He had a chance to clinch the title from A. I. Hawes, the Richmond player on the right-hand green in the ultimate round here, and he missed it. Hawes evened up and then won on the twentieth when Finkenzaedt missed an eight-foot putt.

The Columbia golfer came from behind throughout with some good and bad golf. He displayed a much better long game than the new champion, and is generally accepted as a better golfer. Heavy going proved his undoing.
Hawes also missed a three-footer on the first extra hole which should have cost Finkenzaedt the match. The new champion was steady throughout. Hugh MacKenzie won the fourth sixteen and M. B. Stevenson, another Columbia player, was eliminated in the final round of the second sixteen.

LYNCH GETS ELEVENTH.

Mike Lynch, Washington's marathoner, gained eleventh place in the marathon race run as an Olympic tryout in New York yesterday. Hannes Kolehmainen was the winner in 2 hours, 47 minutes, 49.2-5 seconds. A half mile in advance of Joseph Organ.

PINKY GARDNER MAY BE FORCED TO HIS LIMITS

Oishi, Who Grapples With Him Tomorrow at Folly, Is No Mere Weakling.

Pinky Gardner, rugged as he is, may be forced to the limits of his endurance if he would win from Oishi, the Japanese middleweight wrestler, tomorrow night on the stage at the Folly Theater. Oishi, too, has tremendous strength and Gardner will have his troubles to win. They are to meet in a no-time-limit bout, best two in three falls, featuring the benefit show in aid of Manager Jack Gardner and Treasurer Fred Abbott of the Folly.

A preliminary contest will bring together Charlie Metropolis, the "Virek" Demon from Seattle, Wash., and Zeke Smith, the pride of Richmond.

DEMPSEY FACES A JURY TUESDAY; RESULT VAGUE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 6.—Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, and his manager, Jack Kears, face a jury here beginning on Tuesday. Dempsey is charged with evading military duty under the draft, Kearns with conspiring to bring this about. The result is in doubt. Much depends upon what his former wife, Maxine Eaton Dempsey, testifies and the effect it may have upon the jury.

WILL PLAY SEMI-FINAL.

C. M. Charest, of Baltimore, and J. Ballard Moore, of Chevy Chase meet today in the upper bracket of the Middle Atlantic championship singles tournament at Columbia Country Club, while Conrad B. Doyle, of Columbia, and J. T. Graves, Jr., play in the lower bracket.

Marines Will Present Scorecards.

The Marines are at it again. Simply stop 'em. Marine Corps teams here in Washington and elsewhere are playing good baseball. They want to help the sandlot leagues and amateur managers. At 418 Ninth street northwest, the U. S. Marine Corps headquarters, baseball league representatives and managers can get baseball scorecards for the asking. The cards are nifty affairs, showing pictures of "Dots" Miller, "Nip" Clarke and Eddie Collins and telling all about the Marine Corps Institute at Quantico, Va. There's a shortage of scorebooks in town, too, so here's a good chance to get scorecards as long as they last.

GROTTO TEAM WILL CLASH WITH SHRINE

"Ten Thousand or Bust" Slogan of District Masons Will Bring Out Big Crowd.

After a spectacular street parade starting from the Masonic Temple at 1:30 o'clock, the baseball teams representing the Shrine and the Grotto will get together in their annual battle at American League Park Saturday. Though the baseball will be first class, the real attraction will be the side features that these two organizations always produce.
Worshipful Master H. Graham, of St. John's Lodge, No. 11, will be in charge of the parade from Masonic Temple to the ball park. In the line will be the bands from the Shrine and the Grotto and soldier boys from Walter Reed Hospital and St. Elizabeth's.

Once the parade reaches the ball park, the fun will begin. For weeks the live wires in the Shrine and Grotto have been figuring ways to entertain the big crowd certain to be there. Thomas R. Burr, is managing the Shrine team, with Andy Walker guarding the destinies of the Grotto lads. The lineups have been kept a dark secret. Promptly at 2 o'clock the battle will begin, with Billy Belts and Cy McDonald in charge.
Unusual efforts have been made this year to bring out a large throng. The slogan is "Ten Thousand or Bust." One of the best-known Masons in Washington has promised to give $10,000, if the game produces $10,000. The betting is that the $10,000 will be obtained, thus making $10,000 to go to the Masonic and Eastern Star Home for the benefit of which this annual game is staged.

The Washington baseball club will be on the road this week, thus permitting many fans to support this Shrine-Grotto clash. The teams will be composed of the leading players in the District and the caliber of the playing will be sure to be big league stuff.

RICE WOULD WIN FROM KAYO SWEENEY TO BATTLE YOUNG BOWEN AT ARDMORE

Frankie Rice, the Baltimore battler, hopes by decisively winning from Jack Sweeney, the Philadelphia lightweight, at Ardmore Tuesday night to be hooked up again with Young Bowen at the popular Washington club. Rice was given a draw with Bowen recently and he believes he can defeat the bathing beach guard, if he can get into the ring again with him. Rice is booked to travel ten rounds Tuesday with Sweeney in the feature contest of the early June show.

"Sweeney has been working steadily in a gymnasium here," writes Duke Kelly, his manager, from the Quaker City, "and if he doesn't win, I shall be greatly disappointed. Certainly, on his record in the ring, he should stop this Rice."
At the same time from Baltimore comes word that Rice is working out daily with Roy Moore, the St. Paul whirlwind, and expects to come to Ardmore in shape to go the limit in the fastest kind of milking.

Thinks Show Good One.
Manager Sullivan, the Ardmore promoter, thinks he has booked a good show for the fans this time. He wants to provide the best possible and believes that this Sweeney-Rice scrap will just about fill the bill. "Rice showed against Bowen that he has the stuff," says Sullivan. "I have found a tough fellow in Kayo Sweeney. If he can dispose of Sweeney, Rice sure will have to have the goods. Both boys are sluggers."
Sweeney and Rice are to weigh in at 130 pounds at 8 o'clock Tuesday. This is the normal weight for both lads, and they should be strong when they climb through the ropes.

The second ten-round bout brings the popular Patsy Donovan, District flyweight champion, and Joe Brady, of Philadelphia, together for what should be a sizzling duel. Donovan's hitting powers are well-known to Washington fans. Brady has the same reputation in the Quaker City. Few believe this bout will go ten rounds.

Three Preliminary Bouts.
In addition to the two ten-round contests Manager Sullivan has booked two for six rounds each and one of four. This is in keeping with his policy of developing promising lads in the District and vicinity.

John McGovern, of Washington Barracks, and Jack Anderson, of Walter Reed Hospital, have been matched to box six rounds at 120 pounds. Anderson fell, quickly before the slugging Johnny Ray at the last show, but he begged for another chance and he will get it with McGovern tomorrow night.

Unk Grinder and "Frenchy" make up the team for the other six-round bout. There is some feeling between these two boys, and they promise action.

NOBLE MEETS CHANEY.

JERSEY CITY, June 6.—Tommy Noble, the British featherweight, will face Young Andy Chaney tomorrow night at the Armory A. A. show, substituting for Johnny Murray, who has injured his eye in training. Noble has made a good impression on these watching him in his daily workouts, but he will have to travel to win from Chaney, who outpointed Johnny Kilbane in Philadelphia last Monday.
